

papers and records of the organization, but everything else was destroyed.

The following labor organizations had offices in the building: Local Unions of Bookbinders, Nos. 25 and 26; the Chicago Federation of Labor, the Women's Trades Union League, Tea and Coffee Drivers' union, No. 772; Bakery Drivers' union, No. 734; Milk Wagon Drivers' union, Bindery Women's union, No. 30; Photo-Engravers' union, No. 5; Allied Printing Trades Council, Chicago Elevator Conductors and Starters' union, Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, No. 7; Chicago Printed Bookbinders and Paper Cutters' union, No. 8; Garment Workers, Chicago Firemen's union, Chauffeurs' union, Painters' union, Barbers' union, Steamfitters' union, Marble Cutters and Helpers' union.

The Women's Trades Union League has occupied temporary headquarters at room 314, 12 N. Dearborn street, in which Life and Labor, the official organ of the league, has its office.

The Allied Printing Trades Council is located for the present in the Omaha building.

NO ACTION YET TAKEN ON GENERAL STRIKE

At the conference of labor leaders of the five crafts of railroad shop employes, held pesterday at St. Louis, no action was taken, according to President J. W. Kline of the Blacksmiths, toward the calling of a general strike of railroad employes that would tie up every line in the west.

Mr. Kline, who returned from the St. Louis conference this morning, said that the meeting had not been called for the purpose of considering a general strike, but to take up a local difficulty of the car men. He denied that he had advanced the general strike plan, and had been turned down by the other officials.

In conclusion, Mr. Kline said the Harriman and I. C. shopmen now on strike were able to take care of themselves, and that there was no present necessity for a universal strike on the western systems.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

The Mrs. Corey that is and the Maybelle Gilman that was, has entered the shiny realms of literature. She is writing a book. The former light opera star is mysterious about the book. There is something in it about good advice to girls who are ambitious to become singers. Whether it tells them how

Mrs. Corey, to catch wealthy steel magnates or not will remain a profound secret for the nonce, unless Mrs. Maybelle W. E. Corey has cabled it over since breakfast.

Many a New Year's resolution is due to be preserved in alcohol